Crawford Global Technical Services® Launches
Mobile Application Titled “Crawford GTS Search”

London – Crawford Global Technical Services (GTS®) has announced the launch of a new mobile application, expanding its reach to clients around the world. The application, which is named Crawford GTS Search, has been developed to provide expanded access for clients to GTS’ global database of expert technical insurance claims specialists on a variety of preferred mobile platforms.

Now insurers, reinsurers, brokers and corporates can search for, contact and appoint the adjuster of their choice based on a wide variety of specialties, experience and industries from anywhere across the globe.

“This is an exciting new development for us that has, in part, been delivered by popular demand,” said Andries Willemse, senior vice president, Crawford GTS®. “As we all know, traditional browser-based software isn’t always the most appropriate when you are accessing information on the move. The Crawford GTS Search application runs on iPhone®, iPad®, Android® and BlackBerry® phones and tablet devices, and it is available from all of the relevant online app stores, so it gives our clients great flexibility.”

Crawford GTS provides the insurance industry’s largest network of specialist claims adjusters, with approximately 500 individuals operating in more than 140 countries around the globe.

“We have professionals working on global claims programmes every day of the year, and it’s essential for our clients to be able to access the right level of expertise wherever they are. If a client is inspecting a damaged site, they can now locate and contact those professionals from handheld devices using Crawford GTS Search, helping them operate more efficiently and quickly.”
